

Palestinian Central Bureau of Statistics (PCBS) Launches the First Version of its New Website

Ramallah: 07/04/2026

The Palestinian Central Bureau of Statistics (PCBS) launched today the first phase of its website with an innovative design and specifications that keep pace with developments in website design and management, enabling website browsers and data users, including citizens, researchers, and decision-makers, to easily and quickly access reliable statistical data that supports decision-making and planning processes via all types of devices.

The development of the website comes in line with PCBS strategy to keep pace with users' needs for updated data covering all areas of life, versions of various statistical reports and the latest PCBS news in an easier and more effective way.

The new website features a modern, easy-to-navigate interface, an advanced search engine for quick access to statistical data and indicators, and interactive dashboards that enable visual data exploration and analysis. It also supports browsing across different smart devices, provides systematic data classification in accordance with international standards, improves performance speed, and makes open data available in multiple usable and reusable formats.

Moreover, PCBS affirms its commitment to making data available to everyone in accordance with the General Statistics Law 2000 and in line with the international standards, and invites you to visit the website via the following link (<https://www.pcbs.gov.ps>)